In this age of striving to protect our planet where better to start than to take a look at what we do. Scaffolding, by its very nature, is a product that is used, re-used and when it is passed it's best, recycled. AGS are proud that we can happily say all of our products and materials are re-used and recycled, without compromise to safety or quality, even down to the paint tins that we use.

We take these thoughts and apply them to your projects. By being practical in our approach we offer a service that is economic and that works. We begin by examining your needs and then by designing an efficient, practical and adaptable solution. We can deliver a service to you that not only suits your requirements but often exceeds them. AGS are here to help you get the very best from the scaffolding, access and support needs for your project.

Scaffolding is not just about putting up an access platform for people to work from. It is about our design, management and engineering; making sure that it is fit for the job, making sure that it is designed correctly, making sure that it is safe, making sure that it is adaptable, making sure that it works and primarily making sure that it's -

All About You.

Construction & Civil Engineering

AGS approach each project with the aim to provide a cost effective design and an access solution that is fit for purpose. AGS make their systems adaptable and often exceeding the expectations placed on them. Using the very latest scaffolding systems AGS are able to fulfil all areas of their Construction and Civil Engineering client's needs. AGS welcome the opportunity to integrate their services into your business and become your scaffolding contractor of choice.

Demolition

AGS has established a reputation for excellence and reliability with many demolition contractors using the very latest design technology to deliver anything from simple supports to major retention projects. AGS provide for their clients a range of temporary supports to complete access structures, in essence, a scaffold designed so that it works, is adaptable and achieves several different disciplines.

Refurbishment & Restoration

A methodical approach and refurbishment do not always go hand in hand. Inevitably support at each corner and all areas in between may initially seem the right approach, however, it is never that easy. By its very nature restoration is about exploration and execution. AGS try to simply tackle this problem by learning very quickly, adapting and using a method that really is suitable for their client's complex needs. Applying this principal to all their refurbishment projects has elevated AGS to their client's primary choice for complex restoration.

Special Projects

From the unusual to the complete bizarre AGS can design a scaffolding that will help you achieve your needs. Maybe it's a stage, maybe it's platforms for the press and camera crews, maybe it's to protect a boat restoration project or maybe you need your Lighthouse moved. AGS are not saying that they have actually done all of these projects but you get the idea. Making sure that their access and support systems are fit for the job, making sure that they are designed correctly, making sure that they are safe, making sure that they are adaptable, making sure that it works and primarily making sure that it's - All About You.
